Choose one or two of the events, influences, or people you recorded that seem particularly important to you, and discuss why they stood out to you.

If you were to create a similar timeline for your own life, what events, influences, or people would you highlight?

Was there anything you learned about Bryan that was surprising to you, or different from what you expected?

Thinking back to your opening peer interview, what aspects of moral leadership did you see in Bryan Stevenson?

In what ways do you see race, and racial difference, influencing Bryan's life, his family, and his work?
